Attorney Client	Martin, Barb	Yes	Numerous non-attorneys are included in the list of recipients and the subject line indicates that weekly meetings were held related to a business matter - suspicious orders. Withholding such documents is inconsistent with Special Master Cohen's Rulings and unsupported by the claim of privilege. Privilege is not warranted.

Attorney Client	Martin, Barb	Yes	The subject matter fits squarely within Court rulings related to privilege, specifically, that Suspicious Ordering processes or policies are not privileged and should not be withheld. Moreover, communication includes several non-attorneys, indicating that the withheld information is not closely held attorney advice and is likely related to a business decision. Privilege is not supported.
